
On September 11, 2001 the world was shocked and saddened by a terrorist attack against private citizens when two jumbo jets crashed into the Twin Towers in Manhattan USA. This initiated an international fight against terrorism and the financing of such activities. Governments all over the world established rules and regulations for money transactions, investments, and the identities of the individuals behind any financial transactions, in order to protect the societies against money laundering and financing of terrorist activities.

On October 26, 2001, President Bush signed the USA Patriot Act law. On April 30th, 2003 the final regulations were released and all financial institutions must be in full compliance by October 1st, 2003.

One section of USA Patriot Act states that we must:

- Verify the identity of any person seeking to open an account.
- Maintain records of the information used to verify the person's identity including name, address and other identifying means.
- Obtain information on the source of the funds and the nature of the business.

For our mutual protection all investments through Lloyds Asset Management follow these international guidelines. We kindly ask you to carefully read the entire document and to fill in the information needed. When this is done, you will be able to do as much business as you like with us, without additional paperwork.

Thank you for your cooperation.

RISK FACTORS AND DISCLOSURE STATEMENT

The ownership of physical precious metals for investment purposes can be made through various vehicles. The following represents some, but not all, areas of risk and costs that are inherent with the various methods of ownership of physical precious metals which require consideration and evaluation by prospective investors.

Market Fluctuations and Risk of Loss

As with any investment, the price of precious metals change daily and there are absolutely no guarantees that the purchase price will ever be exceeded in order to provide the opportunity of a higher selling price. Upon entering the market, the risk of loss is the client's. Only those individuals who are capable of sustaining a financial loss should consider purchasing precious metal investments.

Stagnation and Opportunity Cost

Investment dollars put into physical precious metals can only be converted back into cash by selling. Therefore, there is a cost which is the loss of interest which the investment dollars would earn if left in interest bearing instruments. In order to offset the loss of interest income, the price must move greater than the percentage of interest income forfeited.

Broker Fees

Brokerage firms are in business to make money by providing their clients with various methods of owning physical precious metal products and the services related to these specific markets. A management fee of six percent of metal value shall be charged, consult your broker about services rendered in relation to this. In order for a precious metal purchase to become profitable, the price must increase sufficiently enough to exceed the total cost of the product, including the brokers fees.

Delivery Charges

Physical precious metals can be either delivered directly to the client's designated point of delivery or to a recognized depository which provides insured non-segregated storage. Most home deliveries take place via drop shipment from recognized depositories via registered insured mail and are subject to handling fees, postage and insurance. In order to determine these fees, consult with your broker.

Financing

Most recognized depositories also provide financing services which allow clients to borrow up to 80% of the value of their precious metals products which are also in the non-segregated depository facilities of the lending institution. Interest rates and various fees will vary from one institution to another. Consult your broker about all costs and fees associated with financing investments. All clients wishing to make use of financing need to understand the following:

- 1) Should the value of the product decline, the lending institution reserves the right to demand either a principal loan reduction or the provision of additional acceptable collateral.
- 2) The lending institutions also reserve the right to liquidate all or part of the product acting as collateral for the loan without any prior notice to the client.
- 3) The ongoing cost of borrowing (interest charges and fees) will increase the break-even of the product purchased or being used to support collateral for the loan. Therefore, precious metals purchased with the use of financing must increase in price sufficiently enough to offset the cost of borrowing before an actual profit can be generated by selling the product.
- 4) Increased risk is created by debt obligation of borrower to the lending institution. There are no guarantees that clients will be able to resell their precious metals for an amount equal to or greater than the unpaid balance due to the lending institution and borrower is responsible for any and all deficiencies. It is therefor possible to lose or gain more than the amount of the purchaser's initial investment when financing is used.

Liquidity

Precious metal owners should note that on any given day commodity exchange trading in categories of precious metal may be restricted, suspended or halted entirely for any number of reasons. When such situations occur, it may be difficult or impossible to purchase or sell physical precious metals or to know when the exchange market will resume activity. Although the company makes every effort as a broker dealer to provide our clients with the ability to purchase and sell, we cannot guarantee access to markets for either purpose. Additionally product purchased from or through the firm when sold to any third party, may be required by that third party to subject the precious metals to inspection and assay at the owner's expense.

Taxes

As tax laws are constantly changing, we suggest you consult your tax advisor as to how current tax laws may affect the outcome of purchases or sales of precious metals. Company brokers will be available to discuss the type of transaction under consideration with the tax advisors of our clients.

Brokers

The brokers of the company are Independent Contractors to the company. Therefore, the company assumes no responsibility to the customer for recommendations of the purchase or sale of precious metals made by the brokers, or their regulatory history. The customer alone is responsible for all decisions based on representations or recommendations made by the broker of the company.

Cancellation

The client has 3 business days from the date we receive your signed agreement to notify us in writing of your intent to cancel this application and receive a full refund.

Arbitration With Governing Law and Venue

The parties agree that any disputes relating to this Account will be submitted to binding arbitration. The venue for any such arbitration shall be exclusive in the State of Florida and all parties agree that any arbitration award entered shall be binding and convertible to a State of Florida judgment subject to the laws of the State of Florida and further subject to any modifications thereof permissible thereunder. The parties hereby accordingly waive their right to any other remedy or to proceed with any court actions and further hereby waive jurisdiction and venue.

This Account and the activities contemplated hereunder shall be governed by the substantive and procedural laws of Palm Beach County, the State of Florida without respect to Florida conflict of law rules and venue of any dispute resolution shall likewise be in Palm Beach County, State of Florida without respect to Florida conflict of law rules.
